Home Library Service

Do you enjoy reading but find it difficult to get to the library?

Westbury Leigh isn't rural enough for a mobile library – though the mobile library does visit Bratton, Chapmanslade and Dilton Marsh. But Wiltshire Council runs a “home library service” for residents who cannot get to a library in person, especially through ill-health. When you join the scheme a member of the library staff will talk to you about what you like to read and then visit you with a library volunteer. Every few weeks after that the volunteer will visit – at a time suitable for you – and bring you a new selection of books. You can also request items yourself. You can borrow any kind of book, including large print and audiobooks. And it's all free (no fines!).

Contact Westbury Library on 01373 822294 for more information.

And if you can get to the library yourself... Don't forget that Westbury Library may be small, but the library staff can order for you any book in any Wiltshire library (at a modest reservation fee), so there are thousands of books available to you!

Did You Know?

That the Church of the Holy Saviour in Westbury Leigh still has a fully functioning pipe organ? It was built in 1880 by the Bristol-based company W G Vowles, which built over 300 organs, mainly in the Southwest. The organs in All Saints', Westbury and Westbury Leigh Baptist Church were built by Bevington, a larger, London-based, company that installed hundreds of organs across the UK.

That in 1890 there were 157 children attending the Sunday School at Westbury Leigh Baptist Church and a further 180 at Penknapp Providence Baptist Church? By 2005 the numbers had dwindled to 24 and 4 respectively.

That Church Lane in Westbury Leigh can be easily confused with Church Lane in Westbury (near the library)? In 1935 there was a fire at the offices of Pinniger Finch in Church Street (behind All Saints') that gutted the building and destroyed many legal documents and archives. The Trowbridge fire brigade came to help but went to Westbury Leigh by mistake!

Looking after a toddler?

Keeping babies and toddlers amused can be an exhausting (but rewarding) task for parents and grandparents. But there are term-time activities at Westbury Leigh Community Hall that can help!

The Scallywags Parent and Toddler Playgroup is every Wednesday (except for the 1st Wednesday in the month) 9.30 – 11.30am. Pre-school children can make friends and play in a relaxed and safe environment. Contact Amanda Frontier on 07864 512207 or frontieramanda@googlemail.com for more information.

On Monday mornings there is the “Creation Station” - part of a national company running creative workshops for young children and parents. The classes include a range of activities including modelling, painting, drawing, moulding, glueing, and singing movement and problem solving. Classes include “Baby Discover” for 5 - 15 months and “Little Explorers” for 15 months to school age.

Contact Emma Dove on 07805 088528 or emmadove@thecreationstation.co.uk for more information.
